About the Editor

DAVID C. SINGER is the editor of this treatise, and the author or co-author of chapters 1, 2, 6 and 13. He has served for over thirty years as an independent arbitrator of complex domestic and international disputes, including as chair and wing of three-arbitrator panels and as a sole arbitrator. He has arbitrated hundreds of cases focusing on business and commercial contracts, “business divorces,” M&A and other corporate transactions, executive employment agreements, and distributor and dealer agreements, in a wide variety of industries including banking and financial services, real estate, fashion and apparel, medical and healthcare, technology, business equipment, hospitality, professional services, telecommunications, and more. He has more than twenty-five years of experience as an independent mediator, and has mediated hundreds of cases, including those focusing on business and commercial contracts, partnership, LLC, corporate and other business divorces, corporate transactions, executive employment agreements, and distributor and dealer agreements.

As of January 1, 2018, he established his own practice as a dedicated independent neutral.

For thirty-seven years—including twenty-eight years as a partner at the law firm Dorsey & Whitney LLP—David served as lead litigation and trial counsel on matters involving business contracts, business torts, executive employment agreements, restrictive covenants, unfair competition, fraud, misappropriation of trade secrets, employment terminations and discrimination, real estate valuations, and other commercial, employment, and international matters. He successfully tried and defended cases in federal and state courts before judges and juries, and represented clients before administrative agencies and arbitration panels, and in appeals, mediations, and negotiations.

David is a Fellow of England’s Chartered Institute of Arbitrators and the College of Commercial Arbitrators, a certified mediator with the International Mediation Institute, and a member of the National Academy of Distinguished Neutrals. He serves on the arbitration panels of the American Arbitration Association (large complex commercial, employment) and the International Center for Dispute Resolution (international), and is a Distinguished Neutral of the International Institute for Conflict Prevention and Resolution (franchise, employment). He also serves on the mediation panels of the AAA and state and federal courts.
David served as chair of the Dispute Resolution Section of the New York State Bar Association, and previously co-chaired the section's Mediation Committee. He is a member of the board of directors of the New York International Arbitration Center. He has written extensively in the field of arbitration and mediation and spoken on such topics to an array of professional organizations, bar associations, and other groups.

David graduated magna cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania and received his law degree from New York University School of Law. He has been named annually in Best Lawyers in America and New York Super Lawyers and received AV Preeminent peer rating by Martindale-Hubbell for more than twenty years. His website is at www.singeradr.com.
About the Contributors

Michael D. Young is a coauthor of chapters 3 and 9. Since joining JAMS as a full-time neutral in 1989, he has conducted over 1,800 complex or multiparty dispute resolution processes in over thirty states (as well as in Puerto Rico) and abroad (such as in Rome, Madrid, and Zurich), including approximately 275 arbitrations, appraisals, or other binding dispute resolution proceedings. He has been appointed as a mediator or special master (for discovery management or settlement implementation purposes) by various federal, state, and bankruptcy courts, and has served as an arbitrator in all capacities, including as an umpire or chair and as either an independent and nonindependent party-appointed “wing.” Although associated with JAMS, he has served as an arbitrator under the aegis of the ICDR and ICC, among other non-JAMS fora. He is a member of the College of Commercial Arbitrators and since 2016 has been designated by Chambers USA as a Band One Mediator. Mr. Young is a 1978 graduate of Harvard Law School.

Cliff Bloomfield is a coauthor of chapters 3 and 9. He is associated with JAMS, where he has worked on a wide range of commercial arbitrations. He began his legal career as a litigation associate in New York where his practice focused on complex commercial litigation. Before joining JAMS, he served as a law clerk at both the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York and the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of New York. Mr. Bloomfield received his J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania Law School and his B.A. cum laude from Cornell University’s College of Arts and Sciences.

Marc J. Goldstein is the author of chapter 4. He dedicates his professional time to service as an independent arbitrator and mediator of complex international and domestic business disputes. For more than two decades at Proskauer Rose LLP in New York, he handled complex civil litigation and represented American and foreign clients in international arbitrations including many against sovereign States and their instrumentalities. He established a boutique international dispute resolution practice in 2007 and since that time has served in more than 115 matters as a neutral. Mr. Goldstein was graduated magna cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania, and was an editor of the Law Review at the University of Virginia Law School. He has been named annually for more than a decade as a leading practitioner in international commercial arbitration by Global Arbitration Review (Who’s Who Legal), Best Lawyers in America, and New York Super Lawyers. As the creator (in 2009) and sole author of Arbitration Commentaries (http://arbblog.lexmarc.us), Mr. Goldstein publishes essays and commentaries on dispute resolution law and practice that are read by leading practitioners worldwide. He is a member (inter alia) of the American Law Institute and the International Arbitration Clubs in New York and London, the National Association of Distinguished Neutrals, and U.S. Arbitration Committee of the International Chamber of Commerce. He is a Fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators and the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators. His name is included in the arbitrator rosters of the AAA (ICDR and Large/Complex Case), CPR Distinguished Panels of Neutrals (international, national, accounting, banking-finance), the Asian International Arbitration Centre, and the Hong Kong International Arbitration Centre, and his credentials may also be found in the ICC arbitrator database. He has written many articles on arbitration for major peer-reviewed publications such Arbitration International and the American Review of International Arbitration. He is regularly called upon to make oral presentations and to teach and lecture on dispute resolution topics in a wide range of forums, including the College of Commercial Arbitrators’ annual and regional meetings, membership luncheons of the New York International Arbitration Club, AAA national neutrals’ conferences and special events, and professional development programs of the Osgoode Hall Law School and Toronto Commercial Arbitration Society. His website is www.lexmarc.us.

Laura A. Kaster is the author of chapter 5. She is the 2014 recipient of the NJSBA’s Boskey Award for the ADR practitioner of the year. She comes to her work as a full-time arbitrator and mediator from a background first as a litigation partner at Jenner & Block and then as Chief Litigation Counsel for AT&T, where she was responsible for all of AT&T’s arbitrations including complex insurance matters, IP litigation, and all appeals in complex litigation and employment matters. From 2015–2017, she was the President of the Justice Marie L. Garibaldi ADR Inn of Court, the first ADR Inn in the country. She is a fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators and one of the editors of its Guide to the Best Practices in Commercial Arbitration. She is also a past chair of the NJSBA Dispute Resolution Section and a co-editor in Chief of the NYSBA’s journal, Dispute Resolution Lawyer. She has served as an arbitrator in complex commercial, telecom, biotech, patent and trademark licensing, partnership, family business, employment, and securities disputes. She has served as a mediator in over 200 matters including matters involving hundreds of millions of dollars and long-running disputes. She is on the Roster of the National Academy of Distinguished Neutrals. She is on the Tech List of the Silicon Valley Arbitration and Mediation Center, an arbitrator for the American Arbitration Association (AAA); for the International Institute for Prevention and Resolution (CPR), on its telecom, E-Discovery Panel, Technology Panel, and Trademark Panels; and for FINRA. She is a hearing officer for National Arbitration and Mediation (NAM), a member of the Global Panel for the Center on Dispute Resolution (CEDR), and a mediator for the Global Mediation Exchange Center. She is CEDR accredited and an IMI Certified mediator. She is a master mediator for the AAA and on the ICDR panel. She graduated from Tufts University with a B.A. and received her J.D. magna cum laude from Boston University Law School, where she received the Melville Bigelow award for “the greatest promise as a teacher and scholar of the law.” Following law school, she clerked for the Honorable Frank M. Coffin, then Chief Judge of the First Circuit Court of Appeals.

HARRIE SAMARAS is the author of chapter 7. An experienced, full-time neutral, she focuses on arbitrating and mediating intellectual property and technology disputes involving U.S. and international parties. Ms. Samaras is a Fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators and the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators. She is a Distinguished Fellow of the International Academy of Mediators and an American Arbitration Association Master Mediator, and she is certified by the International Mediation Institute. Ms. Samaras serves as a neutral for ADR institutions including the American Arbitration Association and its international arm, the International Centre for Dispute Resolution, CPR International Institute for Conflict Prevention and Resolution, World Intellectual Property Organization, and the ICC International Court of Arbitration. Ms. Samaras has worked as an attorney in the private sector, focusing her practice on intellectual property litigation at the trial and appellate levels. She has also worked in the corporate sector, holding the positions of Director of Intellectual Property Litigation for a Fortune 500 telecommunications company and later as Vice President Intellectual Property, Legal, for a business unit of a pharmaceutical/drug delivery company. Early in her legal career Ms. Samaras served as a staff attorney at the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit and then as a law clerk for Chief Judge Helen Wilson Nies. Ms. Samaras received an LL.M. in Patent and Trade Regulation Law from the George Washington University Law School, a J.D. from the University of Baltimore School of Law, and an M.S. and a B.S. from the University of Maryland in the life sciences and chemistry.
She has held many leadership positions over the years, including her current positions as the chair-elect of the ABA Dispute Resolution Section and as a member of the Board of the College of Commercial Arbitrators. Ms. Samaras is a frequent speaker and ardent writer on various dispute resolution topics, including serving as the editor and contributing author of ADR Advocacy, Strategies, and Practices for Intellectual Property and Technology Cases (2d ed.) published by the ABA Intellectual Property Law Section.

Barbara A. Reeves is the author of chapter 8. She is a mediator, arbitrator, and special master/referee with JAMS. She handles a wide range of commercial matters, with expertise in intellectual property, the health care industry, and sports and entertainment. She is an arbitrator on the Court of Arbitration for Sport. After clerking for the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, she practiced at the U.S. Department of Justice, Antitrust Division in Washington, D.C. and Los Angeles, was a partner at national law firms, and was Associate General Counsel and Vice President for Southern California Edison and Edison International. She joined JAMS full-time in 2006. She is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators and the College of Commercial Arbitrators, and a certified mediator with the International Mediation Institute. She received her J.D. cum laude from Harvard Law School.

John Wilkinson is the author of chapter 10. He has served as an arbitrator and mediator of numerous large and complex corporate disputes. He has written extensively in the field of arbitration and mediation and was editor and contributing author of the ADR Practice Book, which received an award and honorarium as the best dispute resolution book of 1993. He has spoken often on the subject of arbitration and mediation to a wide array of professional and bar association groups, corporate legal departments, and law school classes, as well as to the legal department of the Navy. He is a Fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators and has served as a member of its board of directors. He serves on the AAA and the CPR arbitration and mediation panels in New York. He has served as Chair of the Dispute Resolution Section of the New York State Bar Association and previously chaired the section's Arbitration and Mediation Committees. He also has served on a six-person committee that revised the Model Standards of Conduct for Mediators. He has received a Lifetime Achievement Award from the American College of Civil Trial Mediators and from Marquis’ Who’s Who. He is a Master Mediator for the American Arbitration Association (one of nine in New York State). He is regularly listed in Best Lawyers, Super Lawyers, American Lawyer Top Lawyers, and the like. His website is www.JohnWilkinsonlaw.com.
PHILIP D. O’NEILL, JR., is the author of chapter 11. He is currently an independent arbitrator, educator, and author. He was a partner at Edwards Wildman Palmer LLP (now Locke Lord) and before that at Hale and Dorr (now WilmerHale). His global legal practice for more than thirty-five years included adjudicating billions of dollars in cross-border commercial claims, as well as general counsel projects in as many as fifty countries per year. He is a Fellow in the College of Commercial Arbitrators, in England’s Chartered Institute of Arbitrators, and is a Chartered Arbitrator as well. An adjunct law professor for nearly three decades, he presently teaches seminars at Boston University and Boston College Law Schools on International Arbitration. Mr. O’Neill previously taught International Arbitration at Harvard Law School, and International Business Transactions at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy. The author of books published by Oxford University and West Academic Press, Mr. O’Neill also authored numerous book chapters and journal articles, most relating to international arbitration. The American Arbitration Association includes two of his chapters in its current handbooks on international and domestic commercial arbitration.

JOHN L. GARDINER is a coauthor of chapter 12. He is co-head of Skadden’s International Litigation and Arbitration Group. Mr. Gardiner’s extensive litigation, arbitration, and mediation experience covers a wide range of disputes in the aluminum, energy, insurance/reinsurance, telecommunications, construction, and finance sectors. He also has acted as arbitrator in complex international corporate disputes and as mediator in intricate corporate and partnership separation situations.

BARRY GARFINKEL is a coauthor of chapter 12. He is a senior member of Skadden’s International Litigation and Arbitration Group. He formerly headed the group. He has handled a broad spectrum of U.S. and international litigation and arbitration matters. He also formerly headed the firm’s U.S. litigation practice. Mr. Garfinkel also has served as party-nominated arbitrator in ICC, AAA, and ad hoc arbitral tribunals and has served as the chairman of tribunals. He has advised numerous firm clients on the preparation of arbitral clauses in international commercial contracts and overall arbitration strategy. The matters in which he has acted as both counsel and arbitrator are a broad spectrum, including construction disputes, investment, joint ventures, sales and distribution, insurance, securities law, oil and gas, corporate and commercial, power and energy, and technology issues. Mr. Garfinkel is listed as “leading” in Chambers Global, Chambers USA, Euromoney Publications’ Guide, International Who’s Who of Commercial Arbitrators and The Best Lawyers in America. He was named Best Lawyers’ 2015 New York City International Arbitration—Commercial Lawyer of the Year. Mr. Garfinkel is a frequent lecturer on AAA and ICC programs, which he also has chaired. His writings on diverse international arbitration topics have been published in Mealey’s and in AAA publications. He also has lectured on international arbitration topics at the Second Circuit Judicial Conference. Chambers states that Mr. Garfinkel “earns great respect from peers as a senior member of the firm’s dispute resolution practice,” is a “great resource of arbitration knowledge,” and is considered an “outstanding arbitrator.”

Gunjan Sharma is a coauthor of chapter 12. He is a former senior associate in Skadden’s International Litigation and Arbitration Group. He routinely represents clients in complex international disputes, including commercial arbitrations, investor-state arbitrations, domestic litigations, and cross-border litigations. Mr. Sharma has participated in the representation of clients before ICSID, UNCITRAL, ICDR, and ICC arbitral tribunals; and has also participated in controversies in U.S. judicial forums, including the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit and for the District of Columbia and various U.S. district courts and New York state courts. Mr. Sharma also regularly assists clients in understanding and protecting their international and domestic rights with respect to foreign investment in a wide variety of contexts, including by advising clients on the current status of NAFTA, the CPTPP, and other major free trade agreements; by acting as counsel in investor-state arbitrations; by advising clients on the scope of their protection under bilateral investment treaties; and by drafting and submitting requests for diplomatic protection.

Christina G. Hanson is a coauthor of chapter 13. She is an associate in the Trial Group at Dorsey & Whitney LLP in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Her practice focuses primarily on consumer and financial services litigation, contract disputes, and litigation in the agricultural industry. Ms. Hanson received her J.D. from the University of St. Thomas School of Law, and completed her undergraduate work at the Carlson School of Management, University of Minnesota, graduating with a B.S. in marketing.

Abigail Pessen is the author of chapter 14. She has her own dispute resolution firm in New York City. Abigail is an arbitrator for the American Arbitration Association’s Large, Complex Case and Employment Panels and for the ICDR, serving as arbitrator in disputes concerning partnership agreements, sale of goods, licensing, the hospitality industry, physicians and hospitals, insurance, wrongful termination of employment, and numerous other commercial and employment disputes. She is also a mediator, serving on the Master Mediator Roster for the American Arbitration Association and on various court panels, as well as handling private mediations. Abigail was honored to have been chosen NYC Best Lawyers’ Lawyer of the Year for Arbitration in 2016, and Lawyer of the Year for Mediation in 2015. She served as Chair of the New York State Bar Association Dispute Resolution Section in 2016–17. Abigail is a Fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators. She is a frequent speaker and author on ADR-related topics. Before becoming a full-time neutral, she clerked for federal judge Whitman Knapp, was an assistant professor at New York Law School, and had a successful career as a commercial litigator with the firm of Scoppetta & Seiff. She is a graduate of Barnard College and the University of Chicago Law School. Abigail has earned U.S. News & World Report’s top-tier ranking for both arbitration and mediation for 2018 and all previous years since the rankings began, has an AV rating from Martindale-Hubbell, and is regularly listed as a “Super Lawyer” in the field of ADR.

RICHARD L. MATTIACCIO is a coauthor of chapter 15. Mr. Mattiaccio is a partner in the firm of Allegaert Berger & Vogel LLP in its international commercial arbitration and litigation practice. He has been active as New York counsel in international and commercial arbitration and litigation for over thirty-five years and as an arbitrator for thirty years. He has served as chair, sole, and wing arbitrator on international arbitration tribunals, on domestic panels, or as sole arbitrator in complex commercial, executive employment, and professional partnership disputes under AAA/ICDR, ICC, UNCITRAL CPR Institute, and other rules. He currently serves as a panel arbitrator with AAA/ICDR and CPR Institute and as arbitrator in ICC cases. He is a Chartered Arbitrator (C Arb) and Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators (FCIArb); a Fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators (CCA); and a Member of the National Academy of Distinguished Neutrals (NADN). He currently chairs the International Commercial Disputes Committee (ICDC) of the New York City Bar Association and was a founding co-chair of the IDR Committee of the NYSBA Dispute Resolution Section. He serves as vice chair of the CIArb New York Branch and as a vice chair of the New York International Arbitration Center, Inc. (NYIAC). He is a member of the International Arbitration Club of New York and contributes to New York City Bar, CIArb New York Branch, CPR Institute, and NYSBA-sponsored CLE programs. His publications include Arbitration Do’s and Don’ts for the Trial Lawyer (NYSBA NY Litigator, Fall/Winter 2014); Arbitration Tips and Traps for Corporate Counsel (Corporate Counsel, October 2014); Expert Q&A on International Arbitration in New York (Practical Law, April / May 2018); and In-House Counsel’s Key Role in Arbitration: Ensuring the Process Meets Company Expectations, Inside, NYSBA Corporate Counsel Section vol. 33, no. 3, Winter 2015. Articles are available at www.mattiaccio.com.
Steven Skulnik is a coauthor of chapter 15. He is a Senior Legal Editor at Practical Law—Thomson Reuters in New York and serves as an arbitrator and mediator. He has sat on cases involving, for example, licensing, distribution, sales of equipment, and internal business entity disputes. Mr. Skulnik’s law practice focused on litigation and arbitration matters. He previously was counsel at Squire Patton Boggs (US) LLP and a partner at Pavia & Harcourt LLP. He has trial and appellate experience in many areas, including commercial contracts, art and antiquities law, banking, employment law, real estate, shareholder and partnership disputes, trade secret, trademark, information technology, and unfair competition. He is a member of or affiliated with New York State Bar Association Dispute Resolution Section, Arbitration Committee (past co-chair), New York City Bar Association Arbitration Committee (chair, 2018–__) and International Commercial Disputes Committee, Silicon Valley Arbitration & Mediation Center, International Arbitration Club of New York, and New York International Arbitration Center. Mr. Skulnik has been selected to New York Super Lawyers for Alternative Dispute Resolution (2012–18).

Recognizing Another Distinguished PLI Treatise

Practising Law Institute wishes to recognize American Arbitration: Principles and Practice, by Robert von Mehren, Steven J. Burton, and George W. Coombe, Jr., which was published in 2008. Mr. von Mehren, who served as chair of PLI’s Board of Trustees, was the animating force behind that book.* He noted, in its first chapter, that arbitration had become “a serious rival to the judicial system in resolving commercial disputes,” and that the last decades of the twentieth century saw expanded arbitral institutions and increasing numbers of lawyers practicing in the field. He found “no reason to doubt that commercial arbitration will continue to grow in the twenty-first century.”

In publishing David Singer’s Arbitrating Commercial Disputes in the United States, PLI hopes to continue to serve the profession with information and insights about the arbitration process.

* American Arbitration is out of print, but it remains available on PLI PLUS, our database of publications.
In addition to co-authoring chapter 15, Steven Skulnik contributed excellent co-editing for the other chapters of the treatise.

I am very grateful to Steven for his insightful editorial work on the treatise.
